

MEDULIN HISTORY

THEME TRAIL VIŽULA

Vižula peninsula, near Medulin is an exceptionally valuable archaeological site that was settled from the Neolithic until the early Middle Ages. The peninsula has a historical theme trail showing segments of the rich and eventful past of the site and everyday life of the area. A walk along the trail tells you the story about ancient Romans who used to go fishing while listening to the sounds of harps; you will peek into the world of ancient games for children and adults, as well as discover facts related to the Neolithic Period and the settlement that existed at the very site in 6600 BC. The theme trail takes you to the remains of the residential maritime villa and Roman quarry. Part of the trail is dedicated to food and agriculture, while part of it concerns underwater archaeology, showing archaeological finds from the onetime villa that today lie under the sea surface.

ANCIENT VILLA AT VIŽULA

Remains of several villae rusticae that can be seen today in Medulin and Pomer Bay indicate that even ancient Romans were delighted with the beauty of the Medulin Riviera. The villa in Pomer, Villa Runke and the villa in Funtana Cove are just some of them, however in terms of archaeology the most significant are the remains of the imperial maritime residential complex at Vižula. This extraordinary structure stood out from other similar villas by its splendor, luxury and magnificence. For this reason it is quite certainly thought to have been an imperial villa. This site is connected with the legend of the tragic death of Crispo, first-born son of Roman emperor Constantine the Great.

EDUCATIONAL TRIM TRAIL "FOLLOWING THE PATHS OF DINOSAURS ON KAMENJAK"

At the beginning of the 1970s one of the richest sites of dinosaur footprints in Europe was identified on the southern side of Fenoliga Island, off Cape Kamenjak. Of altogether 18 sites with dinosaur footprints on the territory of Croatia, as many as 17 are located on the western coast of Istria. The Educational trim trail "Following the paths of dinosaurs", located on the right side of the protected landscape Kamenjak, some 300 m from the entrance, tells an exciting story about prehistoric times. The trail, which can be visited by bike or on foot, is around 600 meters long. It consists of life-size dinosaur models and takes you to the very coast, to Cape Grakalovac near Pinižule Cove. There, on the flat rocks, you can see real footprints of dinosaurs that walked here on Cape Kamenjak more than 65 million years ago.

MEDULIN WINDMILLS

The windmills in Medulin were constructed in 1878. Although many people refer to them as towers, they are in fact untypical and unique windmills, which in the old days were a real attraction and were mentioned in the first tourist guidebooks as the first windmills in Istria. The windmills in Medulin differed from similar ones because instead of fixed sails they had rotating domes that adapted to the wind direction. Both windmills were in operation until 1910, the one at the waterfront was modernized in 1910 and became steam-driven after a steam engine had been installed. After more than a century at a standstill, these windmills are being reconstructed and are becoming a famous landmark reflecting the local way of life.

ACTIVITY HOLIDAYS

Mild Mediterranean climate, as well as rich and varied sports infrastructure, have made Medulin a sought after destination for sports preparations of many top athletes. Sandra Perković, currently one of the world's best athletes, trained at the Medulin sports grounds before winning the Olympic gold medal in London.

Medulin's exceptional tourist offer, with a variety of sports and recreational facilities as its focal point, is not only attractive for professional athletes, but is also an ideal place for everyone looking for activity holidays.

Medulin offers a wide range of football fields, tennis courts, athletic track and practice area for many athletic disciplines. Medulin Riviera also boasts a variety of watersports.

There are several sports centers providing equipment rental for diving, sailing and windsurfing, or you can try parasailing, water skiing and jet skiing.

Here on the Riviera you can also experience one of the most attractive mountain bike trails in Istria, for lovers of horse riding there are two well-organized stables, or you can relax while practicing playing golf at the golf driving range.

01 CYCLING

The Medulin Riviera is a real challenge for cyclists. You just hop on your bike and start riding and the landscape around you will rotate as on a film reel: cosy villages, groves, hilltops with breathtaking views, narrow winding paths between the coastline of Kamenjak and the thick macchia that feels the air with the aromatic scents of the Mediterranean vegetation.

A unique Bike Route programme offers a possibility to explore the most interesting places in Southern Istria by bicycle. You can make a round trip of the total of five trails or simply ride from one attractive location to another, no matter which trail they belong to and without fear of getting lost. To do this, you need our navigation device and our map that can be downloaded for free from our website www.medulinriviera.info. The maps were made for GARMIN, NAVITEL and CITYGUIDE as well as all other GPS devices that support GPX files.

For those of you who do not use navigation devices, there are printed maps that can help you visit all of these trails. Ask your host or come to get one yourself in one of our information offices.

GASTRONOMY

If you leave Istria without tasting its gastronomic delicacies and renowned varieties of wines, then you have made a big mistake.

Must-try seafood specialties include spider crab salad, oysters, seafood risotto or black risotto, noodles with lobster, scampi buzara style or grilled. For the main course try any of the high-quality fish: sea bass, gilt-head sea bream, sole, scorpionfish or dentex. They are equally tasty whether prepared boiled, grilled or oven baked with potatoes. To accompany such dishes we recommend top quality Istrian white wines such as Malvasia, Pinot or Chardonnay.

Some of the meat dishes that you simply must try are Istrian prosciutto served with olives, Istrian maneštra, gnocchi or fuži pasta with veal žgvacet or sauce à la wild. For the main course we recommend pork loin ombolo or sausages "Istrian-style" served with sauerkraut as a must. These dishes are paired with top quality Istrian red wines such as Teran, Merlot or Cabernet Sauvignon. For gourmets we also recommend Istrian supa prepared with red wine.

A detailed list of restaurants and other hospitality facilities with phone numbers can be found in the yellow pages.

WHAT FOOD TO TRY?

ISTRIAN MANEŠTRA - one of the most traditional food of Istrian cuisine. The basic ingredients of this thick soup are potatoes and beans, but by combining other ingredients creative chefs add a distinctive taste and gastronomic touch to their own maneštra. The name and type of maneštra depends on the main ingredient, the most common ones for preparing this specialty are young corn, chickpea, barley, sauerkraut, sour turnip and young fennel. If Istrian prosciutto bone is added, the culinary experience will be even more impressive.

SPIDERCRAB SALAD – seafood specialty that our ancestors loved is a culinary delight which even nowadays is a delicacy for all food aficionados. This large crab, with mild and sweet tasting meat is prepared in many ways, but it is especially tasty when cooked and prepared as spidercrab salad, or as a delicious sauce for risotto and pasta.

GRILLED PILCHARD – oily fish that has for centuries been the staple food of many fishermen families is yet another interesting seafood delicacy of Istria that you simply must try during your stay on the Medulin Riviera. It is most usually prepared in the simplest way - from the fishing net straight to the grill. But, if you have a chance, be sure to taste savory pilchard. This exceptionally tasty fish is nourishing as well because of its valuable ingredients that make it one of the healthiest bites of the Adriatic.

BLACK CUTTLEFISH RISOTTO – the shallow rocky bottom of the warm water along our coast has from the distant past guaranteed a rich catch of cuttlefish, mollusks that have a special position in traditional Istrian cuisine. There are many recipes with cuttlefish as the main ingredient, but we recommend black cuttlefish risotto, simple dish with an irresistible taste, which will surely delight all lovers of fine seafood.

FISH BRODETTO – another typical seafood specialty which was once part of folk cuisine, today is regularly found on the menu of exclusive restaurants along the Adriatic Coast. It is prepared from a combination of freshly caught fish, and a few crabs or different types of seafood are often added. Almost every restaurateur has his own way of preparing brodetto which he jealously keeps. Brodetto is served with ground cornmeal, polenta, which makes it an irresistible gastronomic delight of the Adriatic.

HOMEMADE PASTA WITH SAUCE – Istrian gastronomy is strongly influenced by Italian cuisine, the best example is the variety of delicious homemade pasta that you can taste on the Riviera. The most famous are fuži, pasutice and tagliatelle that are made from pasta dough, as well as traditional dumplings made of potatoes, commonly known as gnocchi. Such pasta is especially tasty when paired with different homemade sauces, the most traditional among them is the sauce made with tomatoes, onions, seasoning and chicken - žgvacet.
